1. Military and armament construction in East Germany has been virtually stopped for the second half of 1953. A total of two billion DM previously earmarked for such construction has been made available for the construction of dwellings and various social installations (Sozialleistungszentren).
2. On Ruegen, military construction of barracks and an airfield has been stopped. Travel to Ruegen is now permitted, and workers are now allowed to go there for vacations under the auspices of the FDGB.
